March 1	The Covert Power of Women: A Case for Philogyny (fondness for women) with Dr. Joe Vikin. What a way to start off Women's History Month!
March 8	Prophetic Sisterhood with Rev. Darcey Laine In honor of Women's History Month we meet a group of inspiring women ministers who served the western frontier (which extended no further than Iowa in those days) and stretched the boundaries of liberal ministry at the end of the 19th century.
March 15	Gathering of the Green. Join us for the official beginning of the UUFBF Annual Budget Drive, lots of singing for the green, live entertainment with our very own Irish Dancers, Lydia and Reeder Divens-Bruffey, and a catered luncheon to follow. This fun-filled celebration will lightly touch upon the subjects of generosity and stewardship. Sign up to attend a neighborhood cottage meeting.
March 22	To be announced
March 29	Justice Sunday. Come celebrate the 60th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and help move the world closer to justice! Kevin Deery will present ideas from the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee and connect them to local issues and activities that we might engage with. Want peace? Work for Justice, because advancing human rights is the work of many joining hands.

President's Ponderings

I woke up this morning out of a bad dream and into a state of anxiety. Too many things that I've promised others are not yet done. My message and other information for the Uni-Verse are 3 days late! I tried to go back to sleep, but alas my brain was awake and panic was knocking on the back door. I used to be plagued by these states much more often than I am now - thank goodness. And after going through this apex of overwhelm so many times before, I should remember that if I feel this bad, the worst is over. After a few deep breaths, starting the coffee and filling the wood stove, I can now sit down with my journal. Two columns on the page to make lists: powerless over / courage to change. Whew! I'm going to make it. How much more manageable it looks now. And the wisdom to know the difference flows in. My other tool at times like this is a piece of ruled notebook paper which I fill with a list of upcoming days. The paper holds about 60 days. On each line I make a notation if something has to be done that day. Then, after those things are captured, I can look at all the empty space on the paper, and I can see how all the things that are clamoring for my attention all at the same time right now - are actually things that are spaced out over a period of many days. Now that I have regained my balance, I can set the lists aside and meditate in my favorite place - gratitude, affirmation, and grace. I think about all the people, places and things I have in abundance in my life, I think about the fellowship and how I cherish knowing so many of you as deeply as I do. I reread the credo I wrote during the Building Your Own Theology class in 2007.

I am smiling. I am now so much smarter than I was 20 minutes ago! I know what I must do and by when, I can feel on whose shoulders I stand, I can put worry and fear in their place and have so much more time and space for grace. I can appreciate this moment. Thanks for listening (and for being there.)

Love,

Jenny Monroe

1959 – 2009 Fifty Years of Unitarian Universalism in the Chemung Valley

Part Three: 30 Years Ago (published March 2009 Uni-Verse)

Last month we learned.... The Chemung Valley Montessori School, tenant since 1974, left for larger quarters and was replaced by the Big Flats Day Nursery. When they moved in, August of 1985, the fellowship made improvements to the building to meet NYS Health Department codes. A Sunday school room was converted into a kitchen, complete with new cupboards, an electric stove and double stainless sink. Coffee hour and dish to pass events were much improved!

On December 1, 1984, the fellowship had a celebration with the burning of a replica of the mortgage document – signifying that it was paid off. The ashes were then spread over the property. Another milestone was reached in 1985 when a private telephone replaced the pay phone.

Other building changes included new roof on the north side of the building, the replacement of original carpet and tile, a drinking fountain between the bathroom doors, and a permanent wall replacing a folding partition between the two remaining north classrooms. A new wood barn, dedicated as the Albert Wickwire Memorial Barn replaced a dilapidated metal storage shed. In the worship room, walls were covered with wallboard and insulation to provide for draft-free meetings. Two walls were done in 1987 and the other two in 1988. Beneath the half-inch wallboard was placed two inches of Styrofoam insulation. A ceiling fan was added and another storage shed was purchased in 1990. In 1991, after many failed water tests from our well, the fellowship made the expensive decision to be hooked up to Big Flats municipal water, paying for construction of the pipeline all the way down fellowship lane to Hibbard Road.

Janet Ernisse, Ruth Helfinstine and Edythe Priset (Shepard) organized a summer gathering for women of the St. Lawrence District that began a district tradition in July of 1990 at Misty Hollow Girl Scout Camp near Corning. This Women of Spirit event, assisted by SLD staff Rev. Wendy Colby, ran many years after, hosted by different congregations.

Carl Parmelee (currently our most senior member) joined the Fellowship in November of 1959. He was active in most all aspects of the fellowship – program, building and grounds, service to the district – but a special gift was his Sunday morning short talks each week for nearly 15 years. They began in the early 1980s and originally intended for the children - relating stories from the Bible with what was currently accepted in science, humanities or archeology. They became very popular with the adults and gave the congregation a little feel for a “consistent voice” in the pulpit. Carl, in effect, created a ministerial presence, giving spiritual direction to the whole congregation. When he finally asked to be excused from these weekly talks, members recognized with sadness that even though Carl would continue to participate in fellowship activities in other ways, an important era in the life of the fellowship had ended.

As former member, Marsha Kardon, remembered... “When Carl stopped his weekly talks at Sunday Services, there was a void. I soon realized that he had been our unofficial religious leader, and that we needed to officially create and fill that position. Unfortunately, it became clear that our small group could not support a full-time minister. So, growth of the fellowship became even more important to me.”

In addition to Carl, we have a number of current active members who joined in the 60s, 70s, and 80s. They include: Jean Wosinski (1963); Marcia and Dick Cowles (1965); Joe Vikin (1967); Marcia Allen (1973); Sara Hurley (1979); Edythe Priset (Shepard) (1987); Corene and Dick Slocum (1988) and Jenny Monroe (1989).

The fellowship was changing, mirroring the greater UU movement from secular to spiritual aspects of worship. Guest ministers were invited to lead services. Rev. Max Coots of Canton, NY, was a favorite. The congregation began to sing hymns and purchased a set of twenty-five of the newly released UU hymnal, Singing the Living Tradition. Why, we even began to openly talk about money!

In the next installment...experiments with growth – and the seesaw ride in search of a new building and/or part-time ministry.

Updates added to The Unfinished Story of the Chemung Valley Unitarian Fellowship compiled by James W. Farrell, 1987 and The Search for Faith Fellowship and Forum by Celeste Busby, edited by Sally Immerman, ca. 1997.
